WASHINGTON, July 13.—Mobilization of the entire National Guard strength of 230,000 at an early date was expected today as the federal government moved to place 1,200,000 under arms by next spring.

As a prelude to compulsory military service for selected men between the ages of 18 and 65, military leaders consider it essential that the entire National Guard be given intensive work in the field for an extended period.

The guard would be used to help in the training of civilian recruits mustered under the compulsory service program.

Four Divisions Called

The president yesterday ordered to training four divisions, seven anti-aircraft regiments and several harbor defense units following testimony by high army officers before a congressional committee that the guard should be given additional training and strength immediately.

The four divisions called up comprise units from New York, New Jersey, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arizona, Colorado, Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho.

The four divisions comprise approximately 48,000 men of the guard's 220,000 total strength. The seven anti-aircraft units are about one-third the guard's airplane combating force.

Expect Extension
It was understood, however, the entire guard is "ready and willing" (Continued On Page Two)

Dear Sir:

Would you insert a little notice in your newspaper that if anyone is planning to attend the notification ceremonies of Wendell Willkie at Elwood, Ind., that Mrs. Ida Gillespie Beatty and Bess Beatty Bowers former residents of New Castle would be glad to see any of their friends from home at 901 South Anderson street, Elwood, Ind.

Thanking you, I am,

Pa New is unable to understand why many persons who get off a street car, at a street intersection, dart around the front of the car to cross the street, without waiting for the car to move on. This is a dangerous practice. Passengers getting off a street car should step back to the curb and wait until the street car moves on, then cross the street. In that way there will be a view of the street, so that it will be known if the way is clear.

Vocational Training Work
Will Be Started In Near Future

PLAN DEVELOPS AT FRIDAY MEETING

Training of men for national defense purposes in industry will be started in New Castle within a week or more it became known Friday night at the New Castle Field club when Earle M. Cass, director of Vocational Training for the New Castle public schools met with a group of industrialists.

Originally called for the purpose of having Mr. Cass meet the local industrialists and outline his ideas, the national defense angle came in when Charles Hoffmaster, regional co-ordinator for the Department of Public Instruction spoke. He stressed the necessity of utilizing such agencies as vocational training classes and equipment and said that New Castle was well equipped to handle the work inasmuch as the shops at the Benjamin Franklin junior high school have the machinery.

To Open Classes
A national defense committee was appointed with Sidney L. Lockley as chairman and arrangements will be started Monday to enroll men desiring to take the training. Two types of men will be enrolled, one, employed men who feel the need of more training in machine work, and second, unemployed men who wish to take training to equip them (Continued On Page Two)

Convention Shows Most Interest In Second Place Choice

Move To Select "More Colorful
Chicago Delegates

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service Staff

CHICAGO, July 13.—A widening move to choose a "more colorful figure" than Secretary of State Cordell Hull to be President Roosevelt's running-mate on the third term venture today spread among Democratic delegates to create the major interest in pre-convention debates.

Conceding the president's acceptance of a third term nomination, both New Dealers and regular Democrats are talking of giving the vice presidential role to a man "who can match Wendell Willkie in color." It is the first sign of campaign weakness to develop in pre-convention circles.

Secretary Hull was reported to be the president's own personal choice for the second-place nomination. But his advisers here are frowning on Hull and are aided by rumors that Hull will turn down the nomination if it is offered him.

So at the moment, the vice presidential race appears wide open.

Chicago Becomes Democrats' Mecca As Convention Nears

To Chicago, where in 1932 President Roosevelt swept to nomination in a tumultuous convention, now turn all Democratic leaders for their 1940 national convention next week. Pictured above are the huge Chicago stadium, site of the convention, also the three most talked-of Democrats as convention time arrives. Secretary of State Cordell Hull is regarded as a likely choice for the vice presidential nomination. United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana will be an outstanding figure at the convention.

Teacher Is Found Victim Of Tragedy Slayer Suicides

Middle-Aged Los Angeles Postal Clerk And Teacher
Found Shot To Death
In Apartment

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—A middle-aged postal clerk and a pretty 22-year-old school teacher were dead today in what police said was a tragedy of unrequited love.

Police who reconstructed the tragedy said the postal clerk, Arthur Slater, 50, shot the girl, Gertrude Hertling, as she reclined on a couch in her bathing suit, and then shot himself in the head. A pistol was found near Slater's hand. The shooting occurred in the girl's apartment.

Miss Hertling, a school teacher in Wauwatosa, Wis., had been in Los Angeles only two months, and had referred to Slater as "an old friend of my family."

Police found the following notations in Slater's diary: "Visited Gertrude. She loves me. November 1 marriage."

Dated eight days later was the notation: "Visited Gertrude P. M. . . . Bet-ter dead."

Lawrence County Wool
Growers Association Will Bring In Crop For Shipment

Work of gathering, grading, and weighing the 1940 wool crop will be started by the Lawrence County Wool Growers Association on Monday, and the work will be continued through Wednesday.

Butler County wool growers will bring their wool to the B. and O. freight house at Butler, Monday, and Lawrence and Beaver County members to the B. and O. freight house in New Castle on Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Tuesday, Beaver County members and those from North Beaver township will be served here, and on Wednesday, those from all other sections of Lawrence County.

The wool will be graded and weighed by W. B. Connell, sheep and wool expert from Penn State College, assisted by H. R. McCulloch, county agent, and officers of the association.

It is stated that the wool must be presented in a good dry condition, otherwise it will be rejected because of the weight of the excess moisture. Wool growers are advised to dry their wool before bringing it in.

The 1940 pool was purchased by Kenneth Marriner and Company, of Boston, at one of the highest prices in a number of years.

Thousands In Denver Hear Willkie Present Three-Point Program

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 13.—Although Wendell L. Willkie planned to formally open his presidential campaign with his acceptance speech in Elwood, Indiana, he appeared today to have set the stage right here in Colorado with the stating of a three-point program which he would follow if elected president.

That program was stated at Denver where thousands of persons lined the state Capitol steps and lawn or later stood patiently in line in a packed hotel lobby to be one of the 2,500 to shake Willkie's hand.

"I dedicate myself to three things," the nominee said, speaking without notes.

"One: A united people destroying class conscious distinction of class hatred."

"Two: Rehabilitation of our national economic life."

"Three: The building of an adequate defense program."

The stress which he placed on the three points indicated that they will form the working basis of his acceptance speech.

"Our very way of life, our Democratic system is at one of the testing points in our history," he said. "We are facing the most ferocious (Continued On Page Two)

LONDON, July 13.—German air raiders pressed home still more attacks on the British Isles today in assaults that extended all the way from Wales to Scotland.

British authorities stated that the Germans have lost 109 planes since June 18. Eleven German raiders were shot down yesterday while only five defending British machines were lost.

Nazi aircraft dropped the famous German "whistling" bombs on a village in Wales, but failed to cause serious damage or casualties. The blasts blew out windows in houses, however.

Raid In Wales

In another raid in Wales, one person was killed and two were injured.

Heavy explosions were heard in a northeastern English town after a flight of raiders passed overhead.

Twenty-four high explosive bombs and between 100 and 150 incendiary missiles were dropped at this target.

Ranging far and wide, Nazi bombers dropped incendiary and high explosive missiles on northeastern, southeastern and southwestern England and sections of Scotland, while British anti-aircraft batteries blazed away.

In the northeastern and southwestern areas, it was announced, casualties were slight and little damage was done.

One person was killed and a number of persons were injured when a lone German raider dropped three bombs on a corporation housing district in southwestern Scotland this morning. A building containing six apartments was wrecked.

Dictator's Cabinet Named To Rule France

Petaim Bitterly Criticizes Britain For Attacking French Fleet

FRANCE MOVES TO PROTECT SEAPORTS

(International News Service)
VICHY, France, July 13.—France's new totalitarian government moved swiftly today to protect French seaports on the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts and in North America.

All French ports from the mouth of the Seine river to the Spanish coast, on the Mediterranean sea and in North America were placed under supreme command of Admiral Darlan, whose appointment as French secretary of state for the navy was announced by Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain.

This action closely followed an address by Petain bitterly criticizing Britain for attacking the French fleet at Oran, Algeria.

Named Cabinet

Earlier Petain named his totalitarian cabinet and appointed Vice Premier Pierre Laval as his political heir and successor in the event Petain is "prevented from exercising his functions."

General Maxime Weygand was named defense minister, Paul Baudouin foreign minister and Adrien Marquet, former mayor of Bordeaux, interior minister. Laval retained the post of vice premier while Armand Bouteiller was appointed finance minister.

Other cabinet ministers appointed were: Jean Albert, justice; Emile Mireaux, education and fine arts; Jean Ybarneguy, youth and family; Pierre Gaziot, agriculture and supplies; Francois Pietri, communications, and Henry Lemery, colonies.

Three secretaries of state for the armed forces were named: General Leon Colson, army; Admiral Jean Darlan, navy, and General Maurice Pujo, aviation.

The cabinet will be completed with a minister of production and labor, to be announced later.

for jobs. All men accepted come through the employment service.

Mr. Cass outlined his ideas of vocational training in New Castle and its importance in relation to industry. He asked the co-operation of the industrialists and promised that he would in turn give the fullest co-operation of his department.

C. L. Shira, a member of the New Castle school board and the chairman of the advisory committee working in conjunction with the vocational work, presided at the meeting. About thirty were present including Superintendent of Schools Dr. C. C. Green and his cousin, Dr. Rufus Woods of the state of Washington. Dr. Woods is a publisher and is looked upon in the west as the father of the Grand Coulee dam. He has recently returned from Europe and spoke interestingly and informatively upon conditions overseas.

The national defense committee of which Mr. Lockie is the chairman will meet Monday at 12:30 at the Benjamin Franklin shops to get the work of enrolling men in the national defense classes started.

THOUSANDS HEAR WILLKIE PRESENT 3-POINT PROGRAM

assault, physically, psychologically and ideologically, that we have faced in all our long history.

"The unity of our people, the rehabilitation of our economic life and the building of an adequate defense are indispensable to the preservation of our way of life.

"Have no delusion that the rehabilitation of our economic life is not as important or even more important, than a defense program. If we make our economic life vibrant and vital and have a united people, no dictator or totalitarian ruler will ever strike at this country."

Join Great Crusade

He asked his listeners to join him in "not a political campaign but in a great crusade to restore America its true tradition so that it may stand before the world, restored as a great, united and strong country."

That the candidate placed "rehabilitation of our national economic life" ahead of national defense indicated that it will be on this ground and the unity issue that he will carry the fight to the Democratic candidate, whoever he may be.

Without specific reference to them, it might be said that his three points generally covered the ground-work of such probable issues as capital and labor relations under the new deal, government regulation of industry, business and finance, and military and naval preparedness. At least that was the inference his audience drew.

The trip to Denver was by automobile with stops at Littleton and Englewood where residents demanded—and got—a speech.

Strenuous Vacation

"I am on vacation but it is proving to be a very strenuous vacation," Willie told them. Mrs. Willie accepted flowers from admirers in both towns, voicing her thanks in a small voice and fleeing for the hired automobile when a microphone was pushed at her.

Tiny and shy, she scores heavily with the crowds.

The return trip to Colorado Springs was made by plane and the Willkies went immediately to their suite for a quiet dinner without guests and a bit of reading before turning in for the night.

Today Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms was down for a visit with the candidate. A pre-nomination backer of New York's Thomas E. Dewey, she has been brought into the picture partly through the efforts of Governor Ralph Carr of Colorado and partly through her own decision and that of other Dewey supporters to give every aid to the party nominee.

Mrs. Simms whose home is in New Mexico and who learned her politics at the knee of Mark Hanna, is one of the "thoughtful people" Willie will talk with before rough-drafting his acceptance speech. Others, such as William Allen White, George Wharton Pepper, Russell Davenport and possibly Herbert Hoover and Alf M. Landon are expected in during the coming week.

It was explained that the president, if necessary, could finance the mobilization of the Guard with part of the $200,000,000 "blank check" written by congress for national defense.

Renew Drive To Win Ticket Place For Paul McNutt

(International News Service)

CHICAGO July 13.—A suddenly renewed drive to win a place on the Democratic ticket for social security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, college classmate and fraternity brother of the G. O. P. nominee Wendell Willkie, opened with a bang today.

The tall Indiana "glamour boy" arrived in the windy city and his campaign headquarters—the largest in town—sprang into being.

Behind his desk in a giant ballroom of the spacious Stevens hotel, surrounded by immense portraits of the former Hoosier governor, Frank McHale, head of the old McNutt-for-president clubs, confidently predicted his man would have a spot on the ticket when next week's convention is over.

Had, more important McNutt workers were out buttonholing arriving delegates and talking him up as "the man who can beat Willkie."

Lord Catto, now financial adviser of the treasury, is regarded as a leading candidate to succeed Norman.

vessels, and continued with unabated violence throughout the day, according to the official statement.

During the night, it was claimed, the British fleet split up into three units and headed eastward at different speeds. They were found again next day (Friday) and subjected to another heavy bombardment, the Italian communiqué said.

The bombing was carried out "by all of our air force from bases in southern Italy, Libya and the eastern Mediterranean," according to the statement.

Two enemy planes were shot down over Malta during a reconnaissance flight, it was stated.

Counter Claims

The communiqué also claimed that Fascist troops repulsed British counter-attacks "with great losses" in the region near Moyalet.

(A British statement yesterday, apparently referring to the same counter-attacks, said the Italian drive on the Moyalet region had been stopped in its tracks by the British counter-drive.)

"In the same region," the Italian communiqué continued, "we shot down four enemy pursuit planes in air fights. The enemy undertook an air attack on Chisidelo, Giggiga and Massua without causing damage."

"One of the airplanes was shot down by our pursuit planes and another was brought down by anti-aircraft fire. All our machines returned safely."

"One of our aircraft which was reported missing on Friday has returned."

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The army continued the fast tempo of preparedness today by creating a new "streamlined" division of 8,000 men, a force highly mobile and possessed of strong fighting power.

At the same time the national defense commission was putting the finishing touches to plans for additional huge military contracts involving the purchase of tanks, guns and ammunition and the construction of additional warships.

The army's new division, the ninth, will be stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., where numerous facilities and extensive terrain already is available.

This force will include three infantry units, one unit of field artillery with truck-drawn 75 m. m. guns and one artillery unit with 155 m. m. howitzers. These guns will be truck-drawn. A combat engineers battalion also is provided.

Scores of Lesser Units

In addition to formation of the ninth division, the army is organizing scores of lesser military units which will be stationed at various posts throughout the nation.

The personnel of the new division and the various smaller units will be drawn from the 55,000 increase in the enlisted strength authorized by a recent act of Congress.

Plans also provide for establishment of small motorized reconnaissance units consisting of 105 men each which will be attached to all infantry divisions. The organization of an armored division at Fort Knox, Ky., site of the Treasury's huge stronghold for gold bullion, is progressing rapidly, officials reported.

Meanwhile, the defense commission, co-operating with the navy, acted speedily to start construction on some of the additional 200 war ships authorized by Congress this week.

Although funds for this work have not yet been voted, negotiations between the commission and navy officials and shipbuilders have been in progress for some time. Through the help of the commission, the army also is ready to announce orders for a large number of tanks and other heavy equipment.

A substantial reconstruction finance corporation loan to the Packard Motor company to assist this plant in the production of 9,000 Rolls Royce airplane engines may be announced shortly. Packard has agreed to manufacture 6,000 of these engines for Great Britain and 3,000 for the United States.

An order for purchase of a number of the planes has been made, the commission said, but declined to reveal the name of the company manufacturing the ship or any details of its construction.

GERMAN RAIDERS CONTINUE DRIVE ON BRITISH ISLES

raids followed a night of heavy British aerial attacks on military objectives within Germany and German-occupied airdromes and other bases along the French and low-land coasts.

The British assaults, in which waves of bombers delivered stunning blows against the Nazis, were directed in an effort to break up German concentrations for the promised invasion of Britain.

It was estimated that about 10 persons were killed during yesterday's German raids on the British isles.

During the night a German bomber was shot down over the south coast following destruction of 10 raiders between dawn and dusk yesterday.

Since June 18 it was estimated, nearly 170 British civilians have been killed. If this figure is correct, the Germans have lost roughly two planes for every three Britons killed since the major air offensive began June 18.

German Report

Berlin, July 13.—Heavy damage to British tank depots, piers, docks and factories were claimed today in the communiqué of the German high command which said:

"For a long period, German naval forces in overseas waters have been carrying out successful operations. Several merchant ships with valuable cargoes have been captured as prizes and have now arrived at German ports."

"One German submarine reports that it sank 24,884 tons of enemy merchant shipping."

"Our fighters again attacked enemy ships along the English east coast and in the channel, as well as airports, docks, piers and armament factories in England and Scotland."

"One patrol boat and one merchant ship of 2,000 tons were sunk and five merchantmen damaged. Eight planes were destroyed on the ground at St. Merryn airport. Tank depots in Exeter, piers and docks at Portland, Newport and Dundee and armament plants at Billingham and Newcastle were effectively bombed."

"British planes last night again dropped bombs on northern Germany, destroying several houses and killing a number of civilians."

"Enemy losses announced on July 12 have been increased by four planes shot down at night by anti-aircraft fire. The number is now 17."

"Yesterday's enemy losses were 13 planes, including four shot down in air battle and one by a night chaser. Five German planes are missing."

CONGRESS PASSES THE HATCH BILL

THE two-to-one vote by which the House passed the Hatch bill showed its unwillingness to run counter to public opinion in this election year.

Undoubtedly there has been a popular demand for curbs on excessive spending in political campaigns, as well as for the provision in the new Hatch bill to protect state employees, paid from federal funds, against making or enforced contributions to party treasuries.

The provision barring such public servants from partisan activities is also designed to remove a long-standing abuse.

Those who say such legislation is bound to become a dead letter might explain why the original Hatch bill and its supplement encountered such bitter opposition in the House, with committee members piling up every possible obstacle to enactment. Evidently the effect of these measures for cleaner politics was feared. Experience may show the need for strengthening some provisions, but at least a beginning will be made toward accomplishing a long-needed reform now that this bill has finally been approved by both branches of Congress.

CHANGES FORCED BY CENSUS

One important practical outcome of the latest census that has received little attention is the effect it will have upon the legal status and powers of many counties and municipalities throughout the country.

The great majority of states, confronted with the constitutional prohibition against "special" enactments for individual subdivisions, have been able to legislate for the varied geographic, economic and social conditions of different sections only by a classification of county and municipal units on the basis of population. This has long been accepted by the courts as a reasonable and proper basis for free of any arbitrary or capricious means of evading the constitutional mandate.

While classifications as to both counties and municipalities vary widely in different states, the largest number of changes in status will, of course, occur among the municipalities. Some doubtless may have to undergo a complete reorganization of their administrative systems, and if previous census results serve as any criterion a great number of legal proceedings may be expected.

AMERICAN "EVACUATION"

The children's exodus reached its peak in New York City at the end of June and start of July. Thousands of boys and girls, laughing and eager, thronged railroad and bus stations and waved good-bye to smiling parents. The children carried duffle bags, tennis rackets, fishing rods and other sport equipment. There wasn't a gas mask anywhere.

This great dispersion from the nation's metropolises was repeated on a smaller scale in other cities all over the country. It was the departure of fortunate American youth to camps—Scout camps, Campfire camps, private camps, fresh air camps, settlement house camps, Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. camps, and many others. Some children have gone for the summer, others for one or two weeks. They will have fun and fresh air and discipline, and that training in democracy which comes with learning to live and work and play with your contemporaries and to share in camp duties as well as fun.

Many an adult, at railroad or bus station in every section of the country, must have looked upon the departing offspring with a deepened sense of thankfulness and a prayer that tragedy and terror would never cast their shadows over these yearly flights from the cities.

FIRST AND LAST

How high the flames are leaping from the heat of this historical hour is now to be seen in the imminent test of Britain's traditional reliance on its naval strength in maintaining its island security.

For centuries England, guarded by its fighting ships, has considered invasion impossible. Today Hitler, keeping to his original resolution to attack the island itself, is to bring to Britain the most critical challenge it has ever faced from the sea.

Britain's chances of beating back the Germans from its shores have been enhanced by the finishing off of the French fleet so far as any German use of it goes. It is now easier for Britain to maintain the long blockade against Germany now reaching from North Norway to Spain and thus to draw more heavily upon the blockading force for use in the North Sea, the Channel and, not least in importance, off the coast of Ireland which can become an Achilles' heel.

Germany can not get at England's throat without breaking the sea cordon which surrounds the island and which so far defeats troop transport by water. Parachutists and air-borne forces may effect landings on the shores; but can not advance far into England as England is now organized with man power in depth.

For hundreds of years the Briton has believed his navy to be his first and his last line of defense. Today it has come to the test.

COMING HAVANA MEETING

That meeting of the Pan-American Union set tentatively for Havana on July 20 should bring great clarification to all concerned on the attitude of Latin America regarding the efforts of the United States to keep European dictators out of the Western Hemisphere.

This brings sharply to the fore the Monroe Doctrine, now an issue between the United States and Hitler. Will the Latin countries of this hemisphere stand with the United States on the Monroe Doctrine? If so, how will they agree regarding its enforcement? The Monroe Doctrine is worth little under attack unless the Latin countries want its protection and are willing to co-operate in organizing defending forces.

There must be some agreement at Havana on what constitutes European aggression. Will it include both economic and political aggression? The dictators are linking political and economic considerations inextricably. If they are to become aggressive toward Latin America, their trade and military armies will march hand in hand. And the United States, not having found any way yet to take surplus Latin products which compete with Uncle Sam's, products which the European dictators greatly desire, has a problem on its hands that is extremely difficult.

At the beginning the outlook is not too propitious. Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay announce they are not to be represented by their foreign ministers but by lesser dignitaries. This may betoken a foreknowledge in those quarters of failure. But the ends desired are worth the effort and it is certainly the cue for the United States to exhaust every resource in achieving the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SOLVING BABY'S CUP PROBLEM

Wise is the mother, who trains her infant early to take water and fruit juices from a cup. But some parents, who easily effect this training, have trouble getting the baby to take milk from a cup instead of a bottle.

Some child doctors advise letting the baby have the night bottle even past the age of two, in order to induce the child to take enough milk. It is doubtful if this procedure is necessary. Nevertheless the mother should carry out her doctor's instructions.

One Mother's Problem
Assuming that you have resolved to have your baby abandon the bottle, what is a good procedure? I answered this question in my reply to the mother who wrote the following:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I've a problem I would like solved. I may be small to some but to me it is quite a task. I have a baby fifteen months old. She still takes her milk in a bottle. Has done so since two months old. I have tried every way I know of to get her to drink her milk from a cup. She absolutely refuses. I've taken her bottle away from her at times. She still won't drink from a cup. She doesn't make any fuss about drinking water from a cup.

"Some tell me she will ruin the shape of her mouth and teeth. Others say to let her have the bottle as long as she wants it, just so long as she gets her milk. I wish you would please advise me."

Can You Be Firm?

I answered:
"Since your baby takes water from a cup she easily can learn to take milk in like manner. The trouble with so many of you mothers is that you don't stick to any plan long enough to make it work. Just remove the bottle and never bring it back. It might be a good plan to have a little ceremony in which you bury the bottle while the baby watches.

"Then as it is buried—all other bottles put away—she might choose without resistance to get along with out it. A number of babies have under such conditions. Otherwise just let her cry. She won't starve even though she might hold out a day or more. Of course, you will hasten results if all other food is denied her in the meantime. In case she develops nausea consult your doctor."

Having advised another mother who had a hard eating problem with a three-year-old, I received the following from the mother after a few weeks:

"Dear Mr. Myers: Your plan worked. "It was difficult at first, but at the end of two weeks, he had formed new eating habits and was taking his milk. Believe me, it took a lot of courage or grit to stick to the program once it was started and to have to put the baby to bed hungry for several nights. It was all we could do as parents to keep from giving in. I can honestly say that once he realized that eating was solely for his own pleasure and satisfaction, he has been a different child to feed. I think in this case, the parents were disciplined as well as the child."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you think a father should whip an adolescent girl?
A. Certainly not. Any one who has read this column regularly must know that I say repeatedly that we should try to get along without using corporal punishment after the child is four or five. One of the best arguments for selective, intelligent corporal punishment of the tot is that he might be prepared to escape all corporal punishment before he is old enough to enter school, need very little of any kind of punishment thereafter and be a happy, likable citizen.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A PROBLEM

A 50-year-old grammar school near Santa Cruz, California, closed its doors for the last time last week. The family whose five children supplied the school with its total enrollment is moving away, and for lack of other pupils the school's half century of service comes to an end. This little incident, of itself not significant, is part of a larger, important trend—the striking decline in the elementary school enrollment of California. Last year there were fewer children in the first grade than in the year 1927-28, which was the peak year. First grade enrollments since that year have become steadily smaller.

The same trend will soon be felt in high schools as well. Next year they will reach their peak enrollment and thereafter, on the basis of present estimates, decline for at least twelve years. This decrease is, of course, general throughout the nation.
It is not the result of a depression—the lowest-income families have, in fact, produced more children than other groups—but of the stout bars erected against immigration. These have stopped the great streams of foreign born which formerly brought more than one million persons yearly into this country, many of them young, ready to marry and raise families.

What this means to California is that the present number of teachers and school buildings will be sufficient, in most communities, for many years to come. The closing of the little grammar school near Santa Cruz is only part of the trend which, in lesser degree, all of the States are experiencing.

Whom the gods would destroy, they first make satisfied with dumb leaders.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:31. Sun rises tomorrow 4:40.

The Hints and Dints man has a personal acquaintance with Mr. Wilkie, and knows that he is a good man. He will look out for the people in this country, who need the help of a real president.

We haven't heard much about Sally Rand recently. She must be wearing clothes.

That brotherly love stuff don't seem to be working very much in Europe.

Wonder what Americans would think if they had to send their little children to some foreign country to keep them from being killed by bombs and other war stuff, and this while their fathers and mothers were fighting at the front line?

A DIPLOMAT
The wife of a certain minister is known far and wide for her great tact. Just an instance of it will show you her reputation is justified.

One day the minister was working on his sermon and glanced out of his study window.

"Heavens," he said. "There is that long-winded Mrs. X coming up the walk now. I'll never get this sermon done if I have to listen to her."

"Go to your bedroom, dear," said the wife, "and finish your sermon. I'll handle this."

Mrs. X came in and the minister's wife listened patiently to her. Two hours later the minister called:

"Is that troublesome old bore gone yet?"

The wife was equal to the occasion.

"Oh, yes," she replied. "She went two hours ago. Mrs. X. is here right now."

Americans would soon get tired of free speech if listening were compulsory.

ON THE LIPS

Susie Simper had a splendid evening with a new boy friend. After a show, dinner and a bit of dancing, he escorted her to her door.

"Do you suppose a kiss would be out of place now?" he asked.

"It isn't," replied Miss Simper, archly.

Girls are funny, and so was a doctor who offered advice to a girl who was pale, thin and thought she was dying because her boy friend was going with another girl.

This was the free prescription the doctor gave the girl: "Eat a good, square meal, buy yourself some candy and eat that, and soon you'll look like a million dollars and in less than no time you'll have another boy friend."

Mr. Wilkie seem to have shut up a lot of yapping in Washington. Some of the boys down there are thinking he is all right—for a very good reason.

When you go away on your vacation take a sufficient amount of clothes for your needs which, of course, must be determined by the length of your trip and the route you will follow. But whatever your destination may be, do not take along a superfluity of dresses and accessories for which you will have little or no need.

Tailored or sports clothes for travel and morning wear, a few cottons for morning wear and travel, a few cottons and silks for afternoon and evening, one or two double-duty dinner dresses (the jackets of which can be removed for more formal occasions), a dark ensemble for rainy days and a coat for possible cool weather will see you through a short vacation on which you do not wish to be burdened with a trunk.

Readers' Questions Answered
Question: When making calls on families where there are several adult members, is there any way of leaving cards to denote that all members are being called upon, other than leaving a number of cards?—Vera.

Answer: You are supposed to leave a card for each lady in the house (three being the limit). Women do not leave cards for the men. Many wishing to indicate that one card is left for all of the ladies of the house turn the card down at one corner. You may do this, if you object to leaving two or three cards.

Question: My niece is going to marry. May I correctly give her a shower?—Aunt.

Answer: Why not give a tea or an evening party in her honor, making no mention of its being a shower. For showers should be given by friends, not members of the bride's family.

Question: Is it a breach of etiquette for a guest to compliment the hostess on her dinner?—R. G.

Answer: No comment, even praise, should be made about the dinner, unless it is informal and the guests intimate friends.

There are people who will not admit there are two sides to any question. They think there is only one side—their's.

DEADLY INSULT

"That nasty man insulted me," snapped the woman in the street car, lodging a complaint with the motorman-conductor.

"What happened?" asked the car boss.

"I'll tell you," volunteered a passenger. "This lady came in, and the man gave her his seat. She told him he was very kind. Then he said, 'I know some men who don't give their seats to anyone except pretty girls, but looks don't make no difference to me.'"

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"But how could you marry a man you knew to be a burglar?" asked the judge of the girl witness.

"Oh, I don't know," she replied, "unless it is that I thought he would be so quiet around the house."

STILL CRAZY

An inmate of a certain insane asylum feeling that he had recovered enough to be released, appeared before the desk of the superintendent. After he was partially examined he was asked the following question:

"If we discharge you, will you promise to let women and liquor alone?"

"Yes, sir," replied the inmate. The superintendent beckoned to a guard, saying, "Lock him up; he's still crazy."

Our forefathers had a way of saving themselves. It must have been through soil, toil and sweat.

It is misleading to say that people are self-conscious. When they act that way, they are fault-conscious.

By the way, Pard, do you know what the Monroe Doctrine means?

The judge thought there was something familiar about the prisoner.

"Haven't I seen you before?" he asked.

"Often, sir," said the prisoner. "I thought so," declared the judge. "What was the charge the last time I saw you?"

"Fifty cents, your honor," replied the prisoner. "I mixed a mint julep for you as I often do. You remember Pete the bartender, don't you?"

Before the radio, few people classified music as noise.

Though contrary to accepted belief we still think going along in a well-worn rut is better than pulling out, to skid into the ditch.

How to get something for nothing will continue to be an absorbing problem for many years to come.

What's What At A Glance

Old Guard Disapproves Of Wilkie
Will Make Best Of Situation Though
Would Have Been Unhappier With Dewey

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 13.—As soon as senators, representatives and miscellaneous other politicians began getting back to Washington, where congress was in session until it recessed for the Democratic convention, it became evident the Republican old guard is going to make the best of Wendell L. Wilkie. In fact, the old guard's trying to capitalize on him, as essentially a candidate of its own selection. It seems likely to be pretty hard to fool the public into accepting this story. Still, say the guardsmen, "His final nomination was unanimous, wasn't it?"

There's little balm in Gilead for some of big money's representatives who were active at the Philadelphia gathering. They particularly didn't approve of Tom Dewey. They thought he'd be a strong vote-getter on election day, but they surmised that, if he got into the White House, he'd be absolutely unmanageable. They were afraid of him—didn't want him chosen even if they believed he might win in November.

Wendell wasn't their pick as an alternative choice. Nevertheless, they do have their hopes that, supposing he gets into the executive mansion, he'll listen to a certain amount of their brand of reasoning. He isn't their ideal, but he's more so than Roosevelt's been and they'd rather take chances on him than they would have been to have risked Dewey.

The Professionals' Attitude
Professional party politicians are a bit different from big business fixers.

A professional politician gives first consideration to his party ORGANIZATION. Above everything, he doesn't want to see that disrupted. If he can hold his "organization" together, it can be licked a time or two at the polls and still have a subsequent comeback, which he'll be in on. But he's done for permanently if his "organization's" badly shattered.

Well, Wendell surely did a fine job of just such shattering. However, perhaps more of the pieces can be picked up and glued together if Wilkie wins than would have been possible after Dewey victory—because the ex-Hoosier is assessed as sensible and coherent as compared with the possibly politically-wild ex-Michiganer.

In short, neither the business folk nor the professional politicians were pro-Dewey or pro-Wilkie. But, as between the pair, they appear to be settling down to a conviction that they got the better bargain out of Wilkie. It didn't look like that while the convention fight was raging, but that wasn't altogether because the business crowd and the professionals hadn't a choice between them. It was because the popularity issue had to have time to settle itself finally.

Lines Badly Scrambled

It took a few days after the convention for the Republican groups to orientate themselves respectively. It doesn't say much for their acumen, either as businessmen or politicians, that they were so flabbergasted by the Philadelphia outcome. Yet they mustn't be overly blamed. Who wasn't flabbergasted? The public, which did it, itself was flabbergasted. I wouldn't wonder if Wendell wasn't. I don't believe he expected to be elected.

He isn't under any obligations to anybody. That is, he's under none to anybody classifiable as an especial group. However, he doesn't say anything insulting to the folks who tried to run the convention. He doesn't emphasize that their oratory was very mediocre, or that their platform, adopted before he had anything to say about it, didn't mean much.

And his opposition is starting off all wrong. Senator George W. Norris, TVA's apostle, couldn't have done more to discount himself than by his reference to Wendell as a "second insult."

But we'll know more about the Wilkie and McNary campaign's prospects after the Democratic convention in Chicago.

Guessing in Washington is that the latter will have to hump itself.

These are things on which to ponder:

That white patch of cloud off yonder
And that brook, so swiftly running
And so mad to reach the sea;
Crow and kingbird up there darting
And that hatch of flies just starting
Where at breakfast or at supper
Hungry trout are bound to be.

Oh there's much to keep man busy,
Song of cardinal! Where is he?
What a world for man to live in
With so much of charm to see!
Can man fashion finer churches
Than a grove of silver birches
Or find any place where worship
Of the Lord could holier be?

I just said: "I'm going fishing!"
What I meant was: going wishing,
Going dreaming, going thinking,
Going out to hear and see.
Going out to view life's drama
In one glorious panorama
And discover countless marvels
Which the city hides from me.

The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law Gal. 5: 22, 23.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun (Copyright, 1940)

Off To A Bad Start

WASHINGTON, July 13. THE expected attempt to smear Mr. Wendell Wilkie has begun. That talented and seasoned smearer, Mr. Charles Michelson, director of publicity for the Democratic National Committee, who did so thorough a smearing job on Mr. Herbert Hoover, has now undertaken to repeat.

BUT, quite clearly, he is not going to have the spectacular success of his earlier effort. On the contrary, there is every indication that the smearing game will bog down long before the campaign is over. Certainly the conditions for smearing Mr. Wilkie are nothing like as propitious as they were for smearing Mr. Hoover. The depression of 1929, for which Mr. Hoover was unjustly held responsible, made it easy to smear him. With the depression the tide of public sentiment turned, and there was a general tendency to blame everything on the President.

MOST skillfully Mr. Michelson cultivated that tendency, accelerated and rode that tide. In the effort to arouse prejudice against Mr. Hoover, he had considerable cooperation from Washington correspondents and the press generally. It got to be almost an accepted journalistic custom, of which a good many journalists are now ashamed, to blame everything on Mr. Hoover. So universal and long-continued was this practice that the feeling engendered persisted to this day and made Mr. Hoover unavailable as his party's candidate at Philadelphia, though many there believed him the best-qualified man for President.

He can hardly be said to have gotten off to a good start. Unfortunately for Mr. Michelson's initial smearing, he made a number of statements which every correspondent attending the convention knew to be erroneous. For example, there is his assertion that "the massed forces of Big Business named one of their own people for the Presidency." He talks about the "massed corporation group," intimates that it was really Mr. "Joe" Pew and Mr. "Tom" Lamont who nominated Mr. Willkie; that the galleries were packed by the "Interests," and the pro-Willkie telegrams synthetic.

THE trouble about all this is that not only do the correspondents and politicians who were at the Republican convention know that these things were not true, but practically the whole population of the United States, which either listened on the radio or read the newspapers, knows they were not true. In brief, the new smearing campaign has gotten off to a bad start. The allegations against Mr. Willkie have been answered in advance by events. The mud just can't be made to stick. Before the campaign is over, Mr. Willkie's friends expect him to turn his political utility record from a liability into an asset. At any rate, that is what he is going to try to do, and charges about his nomination, which everybody in the country knows to be false, are well calculated to help him in that effort.

Dr. N. A. White To Preach Sunday

In the absence of the pastor Rev. Francesco P. Sulmonetti, who is vacationing the pulpit of the Italian Methodist church corner of South Mill and Phillips streets, will be filled by the Rev. Norris A. White, D. D., retired Methodist minister.

Dr. White will conduct the 11 a. m. service. Sunday and deliver the sermon.

MEETINGS TO CLOSE

AT GOSPEL MISSION Evangelistic meetings at the Gospel Mission, 311½ Neshannock avenue, will close Sunday evening.

This evening, there will be a special service with musical numbers this being special request night. A message, "The Second Coming of the Lord" will be delivered by the evangelist, Rev. Wilson.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

To Observe Rural Mail Box Week In Wistrict Is Report

Concerted Drive Being Made
To Improve Appearance Of Mail Boxes

According to Edwin McBride, superintendent at the Mahoningtown branch post office, that office will observe the week of August 1 as Rural Mail Box Improvement Week.

A drive will be made at that time to have all mail boxes on rural routes, serviced by the Mahoningtown office, put in first class condition. Inspection of the routes was made a short time ago and notices to repair many boxes were sent out to residents.

Another inspection will be made during the improvement week, it was learned. It is the desire of the post office department to encourage patrons of the rural delivery service to provide entirely suitable mail receptacles and to erect them in such manner that they will be accessible to the carrier and present a neat appearance.

Union Service At Christian Church
Rev. John E. Myers, Jr. To Deliver Special Evening
Sermon Sunday

The weekly union church service will be held Sunday evening at the Madison Avenue Christian church, West Madison avenue, beginning at 7:45 o'clock.

Rev. John E. Myers, Jr., pastor of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, will deliver the special sermon for this week's meeting. Rev. Milton E. Shearer, pastor of the Christian church, will preside and aid Mr. Myers in the service.

Music will be furnished by members of the Christian church choir.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Representatives of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church Christian Endeavor society got all wet while marching in the state convention parade in Pittsburgh on Thursday night. They continued to march, however, despite the rain.

Residents of East Cherry street are taking stock of their front yards and are wondering how much land they will lose when the street is widened and paved in the near future.

Nearly every window in the now abandoned state highway department building, East Cherry street, has been broken. A group of youngsters was seen at the building Friday, having a great time throwing rocks through the windows.

Now that traffic from the south-side to Mahoningtown is detoured via the East Cherry street hill, Cherry street between Newell avenue and the bridge is in need of a good scraping. The street has a "washboard finish" at the present time.

Smith Cheerful Despite Fact He's In Plaster Cast

Leonard "Chubby" Smith, of 925 Maryland avenue, lies in his bed at home, encased in a plaster cast, from the shoulder to his knees.

Despite the fact that he has been thus since the first week of June, and must remain so for two months, he is cheerful with the belief that his body will derive much benefit from the quiet and rest during that time. He is faithfully attended by his wife, and enjoys his radio, reads much, and enjoys the calls of his many friends.

Until the end of April "Chubby" was proprietor of a small restaurant which he had to dispose of on account of his affliction. His trouble was caused by too heavy lifting at a local plant seven years ago, and he has suffered more or less from the injury since. He has received much treatment during that time, and when it was discovered that the sacrospinous bone at the base of the spine, was dislocated, he was treated for a month, in May, and finally put in a cast.

"Chubby" looks good, and says his appetite is good, but must not over-eat, which would increase his weight and crowd the cast. The first two weeks in the cast were quite painful, and the warm weather makes his position uncomfortable. He was glad for the return of cooler weather on Friday.

Plans For Sodality Dance Are Completed

Many Activities Are Underway
For Young Ladies' Sodality
Of St. Joseph's Church

"The Cotton Ball" to be held at the Sylvan Heights Country club, Wednesday evening, July 24, will mark the first annual summer dance for St. Joseph's Sodality. All plans are completed for the gala affair, according to announcement made by the program chairman, Dorothy Krueger.

Prayer by president, Elizabeth Sansoni, and reports from the following committees, Leona Preisel, Pauline Peluso and Mary Elizabeth Schweikert, opened the business session, at 8 o'clock. An interesting talk on "Indulgences" was given by Elizabeth Pagley. Miss Rita Metz, who is in charge of the lending library of the Sodality, announced that the books and pamphlets are now ready for use. Laubelle Davidson, chairman of the dramatic committee, gave a brief report.

Miss Charlotte Leonardo, chairman of the St. Joseph's Sodality glee club, made the announcement that the glee club will sing on Tuesday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, followed by a social period.

The Rev. Fr. John O. Griffith, spiritual director of the Sodality, spoke to the group and outlined the activities of the mission committee. Father Griffiths closed the meeting with prayer.

On Friday, July 26, the officers will meet and on Friday, Aug. 2, the Sodality will have their regular session.

Meter Collection Report Is Given

Ten Days Net $698.30 To City—Meter No. 1 Has Smallest Amount

Parking meter revenue for July's first 10 days was $698.30. Traffic Commissioner Thomas J. Jones said today. His report showed the "best collector" of the 395 nickel machines was Meter No. 134, near the Washington-Mill corner, which produced $4.05. One nickel was taken from No. 3 and two from No. 1—both in the P. & L. E-Erie depot section on West Washington.

Jones explained that the $698.30 was for a period which included a holiday—the Fourth. Meters don't produce a cent on holidays or Sundays.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Folks in the higher income brackets call it "anacosts." We public park players call it simply "tennis elbow." It is as painful to one group as it is to the other. Tennis elbow is caused by an inflammation of the elbow joint.

Other lively motions besides tennis may bring it on. But it is most common among those who play a lot of tennis. Persons with their first attack usually massage and rub. The elbow needs instead rest and quiet—with no tennis. Tennis back may be caused by slipping and recovering. Tennis leg often occurs after reaching for a high volley. All of these strains and sorenesses require complete rest. Tennis, remarked Mr. Dennis, is very strenuous. The News, By Mail, One Year, $5.00

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT "SCHEMES" (Fourteenth Edition)

HOME WORK—Lucrative home employment is often advertised in help wanted columns when the real and only purpose of the promoter is to make a tremendous profit on "Home Work" equipment which he has to sell.

PARTNER WANTED—Partner wanted propositions are sometimes nothing but deceptive frauds to get your investment in a supposedly profitable business claiming the need of new funds. In a partnership, each partner is responsible for all the debts of the firm. Know your partner.

PUZZLE CONTESTS—Many puzzle contests purposely have simple solutions so as to lure persons into a scheme to sell magazines, cosmetics and other goods. There is a variation in which retail merchants use puzzle contests as a stimulant for sales. In that case, credit vouchers with fictitious valuations toward the purchase of goods are sometimes issued indiscriminately.

SCENARIO AND SONG WRITING—Embryonic writers should bear in mind that some promoters would flatter the "World's Worst Story" and offer to "whip it into shape"—for a fee. The same applies to songs which, although published by the promoter, will not bring fame and fortune unless the public buys them.

SHOW CARD WRITING—Questionable schools sell a correspondence course on show card writing with a worthless promise to supply home work when you finish.

TERRITORIAL RIGHTS—Should a high-pressure promoter lure you with the right to sell his product in exclusive territory, reserve your decision until you possess the facts. Some promoters misrepresent their products to get quantity orders and often sell several people the same territorial rights.

THEATRICAL—Crooked promoters who sell young dancing girls the idea of playing distant or foreign engagements, may disappear after getting the girls to advance the cost of their transportation.

On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

CARE AGAINST INFECTIONS
I wonder, speaking from experience, if the average mother really understands the needs to keep infections from the baby—and the baby from infections. I have just come from a home where I found the baby suffering from an intense cold. When I asked questions about the possible source of infection, I discovered that the father has had a bad cold for quite a few days. Yet, the baby slept in his crib, right beside his parent's bed, within a few feet of that coughing, sneezing father. I was harsh with those parents for the baby is very sick, and the cause of his illness is so obvious, and so unnecessary, that I was really exasperated. I told the mother that the baby may not get better—pneumonia may set in. And I also told her that if he dies, the parents are directly to blame. The battle against infection is constant for all of us. A baby is far less able to wage the fight, for he has had no time to build up immunities. Infections are mankind's most uncompromising enemies. They never cease their efforts to cripple, to destroy. They are silent, they are insidious, they strike without warning.

For a baby, these enemies lurk in milk that hasn't been carefully handled, or is unpasteurized. They cling to the nipple of the bottle from which he eats. They come on the clothing and breath of brothers and sisters and loving parents. They come in with the friendly dog, the cat; they are even in the air he breathes. These enemies come at him from all angles and from all ways. Of course you cannot protect him from them all. But you can protect him from the majority of them, and from the most dangerous. You can kill most of these enemies with disinfectants and by sterilizing. I have a friend, a doctor, who often tells mothers, that they should boil everything except the baby. I agree with him. The milk should be boiled, the bottles and nipples boiled, diapers and clothing should be boiled. Dozens of mothers have talked to me with awe of the great precautions we take against infections at the nursery where the Dionne quintuplets live. Yet, these same mothers, perhaps, allow Aunt Della when she comes for a visit with a heavy cold, to kiss and fondle the baby!

The Human Side Of The News

This department recently referred to the public service rendered by the late Arthur Brisbane in bringing to the attention of Americans the historical studies of Henry Thomas Buckle. Brisbane was unique among his contemporaries in his discovery of the eternal timeliness of the past. He was a step-down transformer for the high-voltage thought-processes of a few great men to the range of our common understanding. In this, over a long period of years, he served a public good to a degree unmatched in our journalistic history. We read every day in the newspapers competent and well-written reviews of current books. That is a public service, too, and our book-reviewing is attaining a high standard of skill, and clarity and an informed viewpoint. But, unfortunately, it would seem that the great work of the past is like a tale that is told, no matter how pertinent it may be to our pressing urgencies and issues of the moment. Our libraries are cluttered with dust-gathering books which offer more cogent truths about our present problem than any of the current literary journealese. Here's President Stringfellow Barr of St. John's College, who rediscovered the great books of history and bases his curriculum thereon. If I were a book reviewer, I would co-operate with him, and ever so often break pace with a re-examination of one of the classics. In our recent reference to Buckle, we also cited J. B. Bury, the Cambridge don who, about thirty years ago, wrote an unassuming little book called "History of Freedom of Thought." It is sound and salutary reading for any citizen who would take inventory of our American heritage, discover how we came by it and answer for himself the question of what part of it is worth saving and why. Henry Holt and Company printed it in a compact edition, small enough to go into a commuter's pocket, in 1913. I saw this edition on a second-hand book stall for fifteen cents the other day. It's easy to get and easy to read and profoundly stimulating to free men who want to stay that way. Even in those untroubled days before the World War, Dr. Bury

Says Pennsylvania Is Now On Upgrade

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 13.—"Pennsylvania is on the upgrade."

Thus State Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown summed up conditions in the state as he saw them in an address before members of the Associated Restaurants of Pennsylvania.

During the past several years almost 400 industries left the state, said Brown, but he added, "In the last 18 months I know of no industry of any size which has left Pennsylvania."

"In some cases," he said, "industries are returning, and this is something the department of commerce had not counted too heavily upon."

Brown listed three most important industries in the state as being steel, textiles and tourist trade, in the order named.

Millions of maps of Pennsylvania, listings its roads and natural features, have been distributed to motorists entering the state, said Brown.

"As a result of the advertising of the department we now receive approximately 500 queries daily about the state of Pennsylvania," he asserted.

SYLVAN HEIGHTS LEAGUE

Saezertown took the lead in the Sylvan Heights golf league last evening, when they scored a 5½ to ½ victory over Unions, while Duca D'Abuzzi was halving with Shelby Social in the second match of the second half.

Steve Yeager of Herge's was medalist with a sub-par round of 35, while Hackett Kennedy had a par round of 36. George Hahn scored a 37 and Ted Lach, Ace Perrotta, Art Cimmi and Frank Mogy turned in 38's.

The results of play were as follows: Universal Sanitary & Manufacturing Co. 3½, Pentons 2½; Saezertown G. A. 9, Duca D'Abuzzi 8, Saezertown G. A. 5½, Shelby Social 3, Duca D'Abuzzi 3; Ellwood Saxons 3, New Castle Moose 3; Shenango Pottery 3½, Ellwood City Moose 2½; Saezertown G. A. 5½, Unions ½.

At a meeting of the team captains, it was voted to open the rosters so that team captains could add new players by wedding out those who have proven unreliable during the first half. Rosters must be completed and submitted to league officials by July 22. No more than ten players to a team will be permitted. No player may transfer from one team to another without the consent of the team management.

The standing at the end of the second night's play is as follows: Saezertown G. A. 9, Duca D'Abuzzi 8, Saezertown G. A. 5½, Shelby Social 3, New Castle Moose 3, Shenango Pottery 3½, Ellwood City Moose 2½, Unions ½.

Lawrence Indies
Top Old Timers

The Lawrence Indies defeated the Old Timers last night at Cedar Street Field 6 to 5 in a fast and well played game. The winning hurler was Savage, the loser was Byak.

The Old Timers did a lot of fast fielding in the early innings, but collapsed in the latter innings to allow the Indies to score five runs.

Heavy hitting was done by—Evenoski, Byak, and J. Fabian.

Score by innings:

Indies 111 002 0-5 8 5
Old Timers 000 013 2-6 7 2

International League pitching statistics present this quirk: Johnny Tising scored victories over eight clubs in an eight club loop. It was possible because he worked for Syracuse and Baltimore.

CITY BASEBALL GAMES SUNDAY

Only Four Games In City
League As Second-Half
Of Season Starts

The city baseball league will start the second half of the league season on Sunday with the playing of four games. The games will all start at 3 o'clock.

The Slovaks and Moose game has been postponed until Monday night at Lehigh field by agreement of both managers. The Lawrence Indies, the first half champs, will play the Elders at Lockley field instead of Cedar street by agreement of both managers. This will be an interesting battle as the Elders defeated the Indies last time they met.

"Gas Housers" Ready

The West Pittsburgh "Gas House" team will endeavor to get started on the right foot for the last half by playing at Ryantown. The West Pittsburghers, managed by Danny DeGenova will start either Powell or Tonette on the hill against Owey or Davies.

The West Side Tigers, greatly fortified with new material, will battle the Red Sox, also stronger for the last half. The game will be played at Lee avenue field. The Red Sox will watch Minner, the Tigers will use Morrison.

The St. Josephs team will go to Croton field to meet the Crotonians, managed by Charley Schetrom, and will face either Stone or Pepe. The Saints will pitch Sargent more than likely.

A glance at the batting records of both leagues to date would seem to indicate that the pitching is generally stronger in the National League.

Feller Grants But One Hit

Shuts Out Macks 1 To 0 In Night Game, Pirates Fold
Up To Phillies

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 13—Billy Herman, veteran second baseman of the Cubs, today has the distinction of being the first National League pitcher to make 100 hits this season.

While rain washed out most of the major league games, Billy managed to reach the century mark at the expense of Bill Poedel of the Bees who was forced to bow to the five-hit 2-0 pitching of young Vern Olsen.

Feller Gives One Hit

Bob Feller who pitched a no-hitter to inaugurate the 1940 campaign nearly duplicated his performance last night by allowing only one hit as Cleveland beat the Athletics 1 to 0.

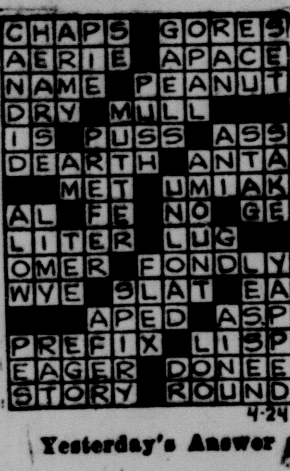

Dick Siebert, first baseman for the Athletics, spoiled a perfect game for Feller by smacking a clean single in the eighth. Ben Chapman scored the only run of the game when he doubled and then was sent home by Lou Boudreau's two bagger.

In the other night game the Phillies pounded three Pittsburgh pitchers for 12 hits to score a 6 to 3 victory over the Pirates at Pittsburgh.

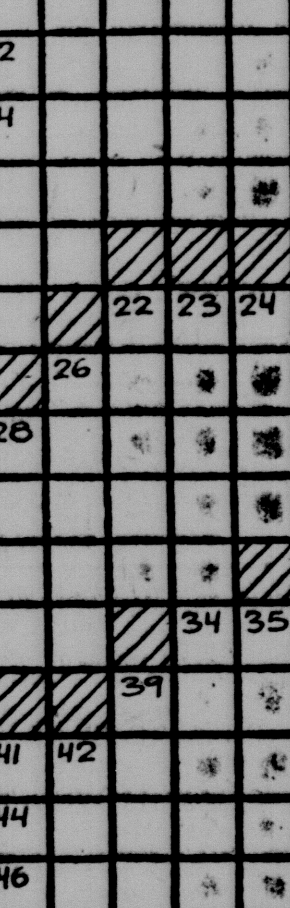

A glance at the batting records of both leagues to date would seem to indicate that the pitching is generally stronger in the National League.

For Past 22 Years, Pack-

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service
Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 13.—The stock market maintained its listless pace today with volume around the lowest level in 22 years.

Turnover in the first hour was 50,000 shares, indicating a two-hour total of about 100,000 shares.

The low-priced Packard accounted for more than 10 per cent of the aggregate volume. The stock moved up a fraction on news directors had approved the contract for construction of 9,000 Rolls-Royce airplane engines.

Leading rails and utilities, for example, all were pegged at last night's final quotations. Steels and motors showed no appreciable change on the day.

Some of the oils and coppers eased fractions. Tobacco and rubbers were firm. Procter & Gamble slipped almost a point on a few sales.

Four News Men
Reach America

Were Driven Out Of France
When Nazi Advance Forced
Surrender Of Nation

By GEORGE LAIT

International News Service Staff
Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 13.—Four veteran International News Service war correspondents returned from the European front today with very little baggage but with a uniform satisfaction at again setting foot upon American soil.

They were among 1,600 passengers—principally Americans—who arrived in New York aboard the U. S. liner Washington.

Kenneth Downs and Victor McCausland, of the I. N. S. Paris bureau, and Russell Anderson and Newell Rogers of the London office, all expressed happiness at being home again. Then in the next breath each voiced a desire to return immediately to the thick of things.

Downs and McCausland, driven from Paris only a few hours before the first German troops entered, described the fury of the Nazi blitzkrieg in dramatically graphic terms.

"I don't know exactly how the other millions of Americans feel," said Downs, "but from what I've seen in Europe during the past year I can only say that we should prepare our defenses to the utmost."

McCausland, who escaped from Bordeaux with Downs aboard a Dutch ship which took them to England, had not even an extra shirt when he arrived in New York.

Handicraft School
Progresses At 'Y'

The Y. M. C. A. Handicraft school" got off with a good start with 50 boys enrolled. The handicraft projects this year are being made from metal and leather into tie racks, belts, billfolds, door stops and book ends. A display of the completed projects was shown at the "Y" today. Parents and those interested in handicraft work inspected it.

Speakers for the devotional period of the school for the coming week are as follows:

Monday—Rev. W. V. McLean; Tuesday—Rev. W. J. Holmes; Wednesday—Rev. J. J. McIlvaine; Thursday—Rev. O. G. Shindler; Friday—Rev. D. J. Bladell.

A hike and bean dinner along with an industrial tour through some plant will constitute the program of the club on Saturday morning, July 20.

President Sees Possibility Of Labor Peace

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The White House today declared that the national defense program "holds out hope" that the 10,000,000 workers in organized labor may be brought into one camp.

The White House, reviving hopes for resumption of President Roosevelt's once-ill-fated labor peace conferences, was inspired to make the comment when all branches of labor—the A. P. of L., the C. I. O. and the railroad brotherhood—pledged President Roosevelt united support in fulfillment of the national defense program.

Poisonous Plants
Are Fatal To Cattle

Division Of Botany Warns
Livestock Owners Against Dangerous Varieties

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Every year thousands of dollars are lost by farmers of Pennsylvania because poisonous plants take their toll on livestock, the Department of Agriculture announced today.

Recently there has been reported to the Division of Botany the loss of livestock by poisonous plants.

The plants responsible for the killing undoubtedly was Water Hemlock (Cicuta Maculata).

The other common names are poison parsley, wild parsley, cowbane, and beaver poison, spotted parsley, musquash root and snake-weed.

The water hemlock is a tall, erect marsh plant from two to six feet high. The stems are fairly stout, streaked with purple, bearing a few pale green, doubly compound leaves, and many quite flat white flowers. These flowers are similar in appearance to the wild carrot or Queen Anne's lace.

The water hemlock is found in local patches in low, wet marshy land. It is always more plentiful after a series of wet years.

Those interested in poisonous plants may write to the Department of Agriculture for General Bulletin, No. 531 entitled "Poisonous Plants of Pennsylvania."

Gov. William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island is in the navy now. That is, he is doing two weeks' active duty as a reserve officer in the naval department in Washington, where he is shown.

If Democracy hasn't brains enough to get ready before inviting a fight, it doesn't deserve to survive.

Not Drunk, Just Took Wheel Ride

Mayor Charles B. Mayne, sitting as the magistrate in city police court this morning, looked over the bench at the Negro woman before him, and asked:

"Were you drunk last night?" "No, no, Your Honor—oh no," she quickly answered, "I had a ride on that carnival thing that goes over up high in the air, and when I got off I was drunk, or felt that way."

The mayor strongly doubted that that was all of her trouble, but nevertheless excused her from a charge of drunkenness, placed against her after Officer Albert Russo found her in that alleged condition at the showgrounds.

State National Guard To Camp Near Canadian Line

By LEONARD APPELBAUM

HARRISBURG, July 13.—The Pennsylvania National Guard, more than ever before in its peace-time history, will move en masse during the week of August 4 to a camp near the Canadian border for three weeks of intensive field training, the state department of military affairs disclosed today.

Approximately 14,470 men—composed of 13,523 citizen-soldiers, 934 officers and 14 band leaders—will journey on Aug. 4, 5, 9 and 10 to northern New York where they will join some 100,000 troops which will stage war games in the vicinity of Ogdensburg and Lisbon, three miles from the Canadian border.

The men will be equipped with the regulation army Springfield rifle, dated 1903, instead of the newly-adopted semi-automatic Garand.

"We have not been able to obtain a sufficient quantity of the new Garands," a military spokesman explained, "but the Springfield is good enough. It is far superior to the rifle in present use in the German army."

Gen. Hugh L. Drum will be the commanding officer in charge of the maneuvers which will continue for three weeks and will be participated in by units of the first army from Pennsylvania and all states north and east of Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The department revealed that the Pennsylvania Guard, in addition to being 100 per cent filled now, has a complete peace time quota in its inactive or reserve force of 3,000 men, all ready for service in the active guard when needed.

The department added that plans for the encampment have already been completed and that Col. Leo A. Luttinizer, U. S. property and disbursing officer, left yesterday for the scene of the maneuvers with officers and men to lay out the camp and complete other details in advance of the vanguard of troops.

While the National Guardsmen are training in upper New York state, future National Guardsmen, under the direction of the American Legion, will participate in military drills at Indiantown Gap, near Harrisburg.

Fifteen hundred boys, between the ages of 16 and 19, will study military tactics and hold drills, minus the use of rifles. This will be the second annual training session for the boys under the direction of Legionnaires.

ELECTRICITY

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Farmers who are just getting high-line electric service will play safe by not rating the new source of power too lightly. Frequent reports are heard of livestock being killed by a home-made electric fence device or some cheap, unapproved controller. Shocks that men could barely feel knocked over a child. What may be amply safe on a dry day may kill on a wet one.

Import Parasites To Halt Japanese Beetle

By LEONARD APPELBAUM
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 13.—Thousands of wasp-like parasites, imported from Japan, roamed the orchards and fields of Pennsylvania today in a campaign inaugurated by the state department of agriculture to curb the ravages of the Japanese beetle.

According to R. H. Bell, director of the bureau of plant industry, the annual beetle scourge will be most prevalent in the southeastern and central counties of the state, notably Chester, Philadelphia, Delaware, Dauphin, Bucks and Montgomery counties. However, all parts of the state will be affected to some degree.

"We are cooperating with the federal department of agriculture," Bell disclosed, "in an effort to eradicate this scourge. In this direction we have imported thousands of wasp-like parasites from the far east, principally Japan, which feed on the grub of the beetle."

Bell explained that the "wasp-like parasite" is similar to an insect common to this country. It seeks the grub or larvae of the beetle and lays its eggs on or near it. Eventually the insect kills the beetle.

"The cold weather of the past weeks," Bell said, "has delayed the Japanese beetle season. However, if the warm weather continues it will appear within two or three weeks."

"The agriculture department," Bell continued, "advises all farmers to use a milk of lime preparation in spraying fruit trees. This will kill Japanese beetles attacking the tree and yet will not be harmful to individuals partaking of the fruit."

Three opinions were handed down Friday by Judge W. Walter Brahm. In the case of the Endicott-Johnson Corporation versus James Keller, trading and doing business as the Keller Cut Price Clothes Shop, the motion for judgment in the amount of $484.45 is granted with interest from Sept. 15, 1939. The case was one in which the plaintiffs sued for moneys allegedly due on a bill of merchandise.

In the case of the Hardwick Woolen Mills Company against the same defendants, the court refused the motion for judgment. A dispute arose as to how much money should be allowed as credit upon the face of the debt.

In the case of Andrew Carlson versus Carrie Carlson and John Carlson the need for an opinion was obviated when the defendants filed a more specific statement of claim after the plaintiff had asked for it and before a court order was made.

Friday morning saw a number of non-support cases heard before each of the judges. This is one court that any judge must detest. Drab stories of wrecked homes, stories of selfishness and refusal to support children, husbands who waste their money in drink, wives who tell stories of brutality and privation.

After sitting through a session of non-support court it occurs to us that a judge would be almost justified in going out and socking the first chap he met, in the nose—just for recreation. To the great credit of the judges on the local bench it can be said that they exhaust every means to get husbands and wives together. They are primarily interested in saving homes and families. Failing that, both of the judges can get plenty tough with errant husbands.

One of the most belabored officials in the county or the state is the tax assessor. If a poll were taken of every taxpayer in Lawrence county the chances are the votes in favor of tax assessors would be as scarce as swastikas in Trafalgar Square.

Just now the county assessors are engaged in the inter-triennial assessment, that is they are checking properties in their districts for changes, improvements and the like. It would help your county assessor if you buy or sell a piece of property if you would drop him a note, giving the name of the present owner, the former owner, the improvements made, the boundaries and any other helpful information.

It is the assessor's work to do this of course but even assessors slip occasionally. By your doing it, you might save a notice of tax sale later on, save yourself the trouble of going to the court house and bawling somebody out, and it would also help the tax assessor.

The idea of helping an assessor may be revolutionary but it certainly has merit. Nor is the idea original in this corner. It was suggested by a county official whose name need not be mentioned but who himself has a long record of competent public service back of him.

King George VI Bomb Reports Are Exaggerated

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 13.—Reports that King George VI escaped death or injury "by minutes" in a recent German air raid are exaggerated, according to reputable information in London today.

It was stated that the monarch had been visiting colonial detachments well inland from the south coast July 6, and had left the region some time previously when a German air raid occurred.

Thus, said this source, it would require considerable stretching of the imagination to suggest that King George had been endangered.

At the same time it was disclosed that Prime Minister Winston Churchill yesterday inspected southeastern coastal defenses although warned that German raiders were in the vicinity.

In the midst of his visit, German planes bombed the region and Churchill took shelter in trenches with the troops until the raid was over.

Martin Gantz Reunion Set For August 8

Early-day pupils at the old Martin Gantz school—all those, in fact, who ever went to classes there—will gather in the First Christian church dining hall for their annual reunion Thursday evening, August 8.

C. W. Herman Hess, acting as president of the group, is general chairman of arrangements. Those attending will make reservations on "reply cards" which go back to the reunion organization's secretary, Mrs. Edward O. Kilbreath.

The old Martin Gantz building stood on the west side of North Jefferson street, near Grant. It was razed sometime ago.

Following a heavy dinner, a wise salad choice is orange and grapefruit sections on crisp lettuce with French dressing. Arrange the fruit slices alternately to make the most of the color combination.

A few of the members are planning to attend the retreat sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America at Villa Marie, New Bedford, during the weeks of July 22 and July 29.

On Thursday, August 8, the group will meet again in the convent hall.
